Newsy Items Gathered from Different Parts of the Dominion.

The steamer Nipissing went ashore near Gravenhurst on Thursday. Her passengers were all saved.

Anthony Wilkins, who was stabbed last July in a drunken brawl by Peter Lawrenson in Winnipeg, has died of his injuries.

Brigham Young's youngest daughter announces that she will lecture on Mormonism through the provinces. The announcement has called forth a protest from the clergy.

Dennis Lyons and his two sons, aged 10 and 12, were drowned on Thursday by the upsetting of their boat in the surf at the mouth of Factory Creek, while returning from a fishing excursion.

The Toronto Globe smartly raps the News-Advertiser over the knuckles for its blunder in stating that the British Columbia Government was responsible in calling out C battery in connection with the miners' strike at Nanaimo.

The steamship Toronto, which arrived lately at Montreal, besides her general cargo, brought over from Liverpool 184 sheep, a number of Welsh ponies, six prize setters, three coups of fancy pigeons, a couple of coups of pheasants and a number of fowls for Manitoba, consigned direct to gentlemen farmers there.

A Boston dispatch says the police of that city have arrested the speculator and boomer, J. S. Coolican, the man who made Winnipeg well known in Chicago. He arrived in Boston on Sunday from Chicago with a 16-year old girl, named Hattie Stevens, and registered her as his niece at the Quincy House. The proprietor had him arrested for abduction.

Great preparations are being made at Woodstock for the Burchell murder trial to come off early during the assizes which open Sept. 28. Twenty reporters will represent as many different papers. Burchell is taking things easily in jail. The line of defence is kept secret but it is alleged that no attempt will be made to prove an alibi. The evidence will stand on its merits.

THE CHARLESTON IN NORTHERN WATERS.

The Best United States Cruiser on the Coast Comes to Puget Sound—Is She Here on an Errand of Peace or War—Another Diplomatic Move.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23.—A special despatch from Washington this morning says: "All diplomatic reticence in the world cannot efface the impressions made by the appearance of the Charleston in Puget sound, the most powerful vessel of the United States navy in Pacific waters. That she should be recalled from Honolulu and ordered, not to San Francisco the nearest port, but to Port Townsend, is strong evidence that her movements refer to the intentions of the Government in the matter of poaching around the seal islands. Just across the straits of Juan de Fuca, in the harbor of Esquimalt lies the British squadron, headed by the flagship Warspite, watching the movements of American cruisers. It is true that when the Warspite appeared on that station and inquiries were made concerning the purpose of her visit to the Pacific coast the representatives of the British Government here in Washington declared that the cruiser was sent to Esquimalt only to take part in the customary naval manœuvers and to relieve Swiftsure but it is an axiom in diplomacy that language was invented to conceal thoughts and purposes, and the reassuring declaration goes for what it is worth, and that is nothing at all. It is a plainly discernable fact that the most powerful war ships of two navies available on the Pacific Coast are confronting each other in Puget Sound, and neither can go North to take a hand in the poaching business without the knowledge of the other. The orders of Admiral Hotham, who commands the Warspite, are as darkly mysterious as those which suddenly recalled the Charleston, and sent her to Northern waters. Whether the Warspite could follow the Charleston North in case of orders to the latter to send her in that direction after coaling up, is a question that nobody can or will answer.

Assistant Secretary Soley, when questioned about the Charleston to-day, diplomatically denied that there was anything specially significant in the movements of the Charleston. So far as he knew she would not go north of the American boundary line. It seems very probable that she will not go north so long as affairs remain as they were when the last information was received from the sealers, but it is also within the limits of possibility that the situation may change at any moment, and that news may be received from the north that will make the presence of some vessel more formidable than the Corwin absolutely necessary in Behring Sea.

A special to the TIMES from Port Townsend states that the Charleston arrived there at 10 o'clock this morning.

MORE BLOODSHED.

Haytian and Dominican Troops Meet—The Latter Defeated.

CITY OF SAN DOMINGO, Aug. 23.—Information has reached this capital that on the night of Aug. 20th, 800 Haytian troops stationed near the frontier of the Domingo republic, invaded the territory of this country. The Dominican government despatched an armed force to drive out the intruders. The Haytians repulsed and killed 23 men and wounded a number of others. The Dominicans had but four soldiers injured.

Great indignation is felt here at the action of Hayti in this invasion of Dominican soil, and the Dominican Cabinet has been called together by President Herduz to consider the advisability of declaring war against Hayti. President Herdux said that the real cause of the trouble is that in 1875 a treaty for commercial purposes was entered into between the Haytian and Dominican governments, which, at the same time, defined the boundaries of the two countries. A special stipulation of this treaty was that Hayti was to make use of a portion of Dominican territory which she needed, and which San Domingo was to allow to be so used on condition that Hayti should pay annually to the Dominion Government $150,000 as long as she retained possession of the loaned territory. Hayti was, moreover, to permit all imports from Santo Domingo to enter Hayti free of duty. Hayti has not paid the $150,000 for a number of years, and now owes something over $2,000,000. Hayti alleges there is too much rum imported from Santo Domingo and that Haytian revenues are greatly suffering. Hayti wishes to make an end of her bargain, and at the same time, retain possession of the loaned land.

A WEAKNESS FOR FARO.

A Census Enumerator Goes Away With Other People's Money.

WHATCOM, Aug. 23.—Mr. C. Noel Bear, chief clerk of the census office here, gambled away money belonging to himself and others last night and then bid adieu to this city, and his whereabouts are not known. He had a strong passion for faro, and at various times contributed his salary and borrowed funds to the fickle goddess. Mr. Bear was chief clerk of the census office in San Francisco in 1880, and brought to the assistance of Supervisor Jenkins here valuable experience, which contributed much to expedite the work of his census district. He is a competent, affable gentleman, whose only weakness proved to be gambling, and the free opportunities for cultivating that particular vice here were more than he could resist. In departing at night he left a pathetic letter to Superintendent Jenkins, resigning his downfall and asking forgiveness. Besides this, he left a detailed account of the small amount of unfinished business to be done. The Mason county district is the only one which has not yet reported. Chief Clerk Bear was implicitly trusted, and because of his superior ability and familiarity with census work, occupied a very prominent position of responsibility. His departure will discommode Supervisor Jenkins, who is unfamiliar with the routine duties, but fortunately the work of the office is practically finished.

FEMALE SUFFRAGE.

Mississippi Desires to Overcome Negro Supremacy—The Latest Method.

JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 22.—A tinge of sentiment colored the proceedings of the constitutional convention to-day during the progress of Delegate Fewell's speech in support of the proposition offered by himself to confer suffrage upon women. Fewell's resolution read as follows:

That it is the sense of this convention that it is a condition necessary to the solution of the franchise problem, that the right to vote be secured by a proper constitutional enactment, to every woman who shall have resided in this state six months and who shall be 21 years of age or upwards, and who owns or whose husband, if she has a husband, owes real estate located in the state of the clear value of $300 over and above all incumbrances. The vote of every woman voting in any election may be cast by some male elector, who shall be thereunto authorized in writing by such women entitled to vote. Such constitutional enactment shall be framed so as to grant women the right to hold office.

After two hours' discussion on the resolution, Fewell struck out the objectionable clauses of his resolution and had it referred to the committee on election franchise. Woman suffrage is becoming in favor among the best minds of the convention, and unless safety from negro supremacy can be reached by other methods, Fewell's plan, or one similar to it, will be adopted.

A NOVEL CELEBRATION.

The Mexicans Celebrate the Anniversary of the Torture of Aztec Emperor.

CITY OF MEXICO, Aug. 23.—One of the most novel celebrations ever held on the American continent took place in this city yesterday. This was the celebration of the 369th anniversary of the torture of Cuauhtemoc, the last Emperor of the Aztec race, by Cortez, for the purpose of making him divulge the location of the treasure supposed to have been buried by Montezuma. The celebration took place on the Plaza De La Reforma, where there had been erected two Aztec pavilions. Three battalions of infantry formed a double line, through which President Diaz and his cabinet passed to the Aztec temple, where the government of the federal district, the council, militiamen and others received him, and addresses were delivered. The Aztec Indians for miles around came bearing feather-worked standards, and attired in costumes such as were worn previous to the fall of the Aztec Empire. There were native bands by scores, and it was estimated that, including military bands, there were at least four hundred musicians present. After President Diaz had placed a wreath on the statue of the emperor, the Indians near buried the base with flowers arranged in a festive manner. Open air dances were given, and Indian music furnished by native bands.

CORPORAL PUNISHMENT

Causes the Death of a Young Pupil in Michigan.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—A special from Pontiac to the Herald says: An investigation into the case of Cook vs. Webb, wherein it is charged that Frank Cook, a pupil, died from the effects of corporal punishment administered by Miss Jennie Webb, a teacher in one of the public schools, was continued to-day. Several witnesses were examined, the most important being Dr. Elliott, who testified that he was called to see the boy and found his lower limbs discolored. He was suffering with paralysis of the tongue and seemingly of the left side of the body also. It might have been diphtheric paralysis. He could not account for the paralysis nor state the cause of death.

Mable Duzenburg, a fourteen-year-old pupil of Miss Webb, testified that Miss Webb made her walk up and down two flights of stairs forty times because she did not walk up stairs properly. The investigation will be continued Monday.

A Great Scheme.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—The sewing school of the Presbyterian church at Natituck, Long Island, has been holding a fair and has horrified the church circles by opening a kissing booth, charging 25 a kiss. There have been several results of this new church movement. The first is that the fair is a grand success and so much money is pouring in that hesitation has begun for erecting a new church building. The second result is that several engagements in the village are declared off, and there is a good prospect for a batch of divorce suits. The fair was held on a lawn near the church and a special tent was erected which bore the sign, "Admission five cents; to kiss the baby, 25 cents." Investigation proved that the "baby" was plural, and that its ages range from sixteen to nineteen years. Within half an hour the men had formed a line which reached, on Monday, the opening night, around the grounds. Each man, as fast as he left the tent, hastened to secure a place at the other end of the line, so as to get in again. There is now talk of running special trains from New York to the fair. The Methodist preacher, however, has announced that he will denounce this means of raising money for church purposes to-morrow, but the Presbyterian pastor says there is nothing in the Bible that forbids it, and he rather likes it himself.

TO-DAY'S DISPATCHES

A NOTED SOUTHERN OUTLAW JAILED AT LAST.

A Novel Celebration in Mexico—Killing Frosts in the Northwest—Two Boys Indulge in a Cannibalistic Feast—Prof. Brice in the States.

MELBOURNE, Aug. 23.—A meeting of 400 employers yesterday resolved to support the ship owners against strikers. The employers in the capitals of the Australian colonies are about to make a similar declaration. In consequence of the strike the prices of coal, sugar and provisions are rapidly advancing.

Young but Giddy.

PESTH, Aug. 22.—A natural daughter of the Most Reverend Bishop Count Forbach, a girl of 15 years, has eloped with an Italian abbot, taking with her a great many valuable jewels, some of which are heirlooms, and a large sum of money. Her mother, who is well known as the great land owner, Anna Sandor, has procured a warrant against the fugitives, and has set relatives on their track.

Prof. Brice's Movements.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—A Herald's Washington special says Prof. Jas. Brice has gone to Bar Harbor, where he will be the guest of President Elliot of Harvard College for a few weeks. He intends before returning to England in October to visit the Pacific Railway, observing on his way the development of British possessions in North America. Brice enjoyed the lunch given by Congressman Andrews, of Massachusetts, at which the leading democratic members of the house were present. Some of the problems of American politics were freely discussed, and Prof. Brice received many compliments on the keen insight shown in his recent book, the American Commonwealth.

Killed by Indians.

DEMING, N. M., Aug. 23.—Parties arrived to-day from Tehachito mountains, eight miles southwest of here, who confirm the reported murder by Apaches of three miners, named Alf. Williams, Carl Ehrman and Peter Riggs, within the past week. Military men say the Indians did the killing. By a citizen's report, five were in the party. Two detachments, following on the trail, went out from here to-day to bury the bodies and secure the effects of the murdered men.

Captured at Last.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—A World special from Raleigh, N.C., says that there was a large assemblage of people at Lumberton yesterday to see Steve Jacobs, the noted outlaw who, heavily ironed, was taken there from Jessup, Georgia, where he was captured a few days ago. Jacobs is an Indian of most bloodthirsty and revengeful nature. He brutally murdered Mrs. Earps, an aged white woman, in Robinson county, a year ago. He escaped, was recaptured, tried, convicted of murder, and sentenced to death. He appealed to the Supreme Court, which affirmed the judgment. The governor then issued his death warrant, but ten days before the date fixed for the execution, Jacobs escaped from jail. He lived in South and North Carolina. He threatened many persons with death and was feared by everybody.

Death of a Prominent Divine.

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 23.—Professor Frederick Hodge, D. D. and L.L.D., who for a number of years headed the list of officers of the Harvard University died on Thursday, aged 85.

Killing Frosts.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—A special to the Herald from St. Paul says: Killing frosts are reported in Kittson, Marshall, Norman and Polk counties Minnesota, and in all the border counties of North Dakota and in Manitoba westward to Minnedosa where the temperature reached 28 degrees. In northern Minnesota around St. Vincent the mercury indicated 30 degrees, and all matured crops are said to be killed. Whether the winter wheat in northern Minnesota which has not yet been cut is injured is a question which will require two or three days to decide. The frost is so severe that it is feared the grain that was still soft will suffer to some extent.

A Long Hunt.

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex., Aug. 23.—Armed with a requisition from Gov. Ross of this State, Deputy Sheriff W. T. Crew, of St. Paul, Howard county, Neb., arrived here last night in search of Louis P. Butler, who is charged in that State with having obtained $60,000 under false pretences. Butler was arrested, and will be taken back to-morrow. His whereabouts was discovered through the pension office at Washington, he being on the pension roll. The authorities have been hunting him four years.

More Silver to be Bought.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—The Treasury Department will to-day make another effort for the release of more money by purchase of silver to a large amount, provided offerings are not greatly in excess of market rates.

Satisfactorily Adjusted.

BOSTON, Aug. 23.—It is announced that the threatened contest over the property of Fred. Grower the late husband of Mme. Nordica, has been satisfactorily adjusted, and the matter will not be brought into court. Mme. Nordica sought to recover, as part of her husband's estate, certain property his brother George said he purchased with his own money. The property, which is in Tacoma, is worth about $100,000. The case is said to have been settled on Mme. Nordica's own terms, viz.: Giving her a large portion of the property, and leaving her at liberty to return at once to fulfil her engagements in London.

A Confession Retracted.

SALT LAKE, Aug. 23.—A man giving the name of Jacob Stump called on Marshall Young of this city early this week, and said he had a load on his conscience and wanted to confess that on January 4, 1890, in Nashville, Tenn., he was walking along the street and came across a man whom he struck with a heavy club, killing him instantly. He then took $20 from his victim, and buried the body without even looking at the papers on it. He has no idea who the murdered man was. Stump says he boarded in Nashville with a family named Tusch. Marshal Young notified the Nashville authorities and an officer is on his way to investigate.

To day Stump retracts his confession, saying he made it only to get something to eat, and a place to sleep. He will be held to await the arrival of the Nashville officers.

Fatal Snake Bite.

WALLA WALLA, Aug. 22.—Yesterday a son of Mr. Parks, aged 7 years, living near Wilbur, Or., was bitten by a large rattle snake and died before medical aid could be procured.

Good Yield.

WALLA WALLA, Aug. 22.—Encouraging reports are being received from all parts of the country as to the big yield of wheat. John Davis, a farmer owning several mills on Cottonwood Creek, south of town, was in the city to-day, and stated that the total yield of wheat on his 160-acre farm amounted to 8,640 bushels, an average of fifty-four bushels per acre. He also stated that all the famers in his vicinity anticipate realizing at least fifty bushels to the acre. Five per cent. per bushel is paid for Walla Walla wheat than that raised in the Palouse country, owing to the difference in freight rates. The rate is 14 cents for Walla Walla wheat and 19½ cents for Palouse country wheat.

Victoria Procuress Forfeits Her Bail.

PORTLAND, Aug. 22.—Mrs. Raymond, who was arrested here yesterday, charged with being a procuress for a house of ill-fame at Victoria, B. C., failed to make her appearance to-day in the police court, forfeiting her bail of $50.

THE CAPITAL.

Frost in the Northwest—Hon. Mr. Bowell Leaves for the Coast.

Special to the TIMES]

OTTAWA, Aug. 23.—Ten homing pigeons sent to Ottawa from Kingston by Major-General Cameron, were started to-day from the eastern block of the parliament buildings by Adjutant General Powell, and were expected to reach Kingston in three hours.

A delegation of the spoke and felloes manufacturers is here asking that felloes partially dressed and imported from the United States, be charged as dressed, which is now 35 per cent. Felloes in the rough are 15 per cent.

A dispatch from Professor Saunders, now in Manitoba, to the Minister of Agriculture, says that frost has touched potatoes and tender vegetables. Red Fife wheat is largely harvested and Ladoga wheat was harvested last week.

Hon. Mackenzie Bowell leaves on a trip to Manitoba, the Northwest and Pacific coast to-night.

HORRIBLE EVENT.

Two Demented Boys Indulge in a Cannibalistic Feast—The Victim Dies.

Special to the TIMES.

OTTAWA, Aug. 23.—A terrible story of cannibalism comes from Buckingham. Ten miles up the Du Lievre River live the families of Cole and Elisha Newton. In the latter are two boys who are deaf mutes and lunatics and were known to be violent at times. On Tuesday Mrs. Cole went out berry picking, leaving her baby in charge of the two boys, and a horrible sight presented itself to the mother when she returned a few hours afterwards. The lunatics had actually eaten away the baby's cheeks, and a portion of the neck, and were besmeared with blood and reveling in fiendish glee over their horrible performance. Help was called in and the wretches taken away. The child lived till next day and was buried on Wednesday. The authenticity of the account is vouched for by a gentleman who has just returned from the scene of the tragedy.

A ROAST ON ALASKA

Robert Darling Accuses the Missionaries of Hypocrisy.

Robert C. Darling, a young Englishman who has just visited Alaska, while on a tour of the world, was interviewed in Chicago. He had something absolutely new to say in connection with that country, a thing unprecedented in the history of Alaskan travelers:

"The chief impression I brought away with me," he said, "is a feeling of disgust and contempt for the missionary work being done there. I am certain that Christianizing the natives of Alaska is as much a money-making institution as is the killing of the seals. I do not speak as a scoffer at religion in general, and I know that in this particular work there is undoubtedly charity and generosity, but I assure you that all that is to be found only here in the east among devout people, who probably don't know whether the natives of Alaska are Chinese or Patagonians.

"The missionaries there are housed well, live well, make money and receive good pay for the privilege. Its frightful hypocrisy—some of it. Why don't they devote their church funds to teaching the natives how to make comfortable homes and clothing, to make an honest living and to be clean. I think with cleanliness and safety to their souls would come without difficulty later on. As it is, the chief result of missionary work seems to be whisky and filthy diseases. Whenever you see so-called civilization in Alaska, it is represented by dissipation, decay and filth except at the missionary stations.

"Of course the country is worth all that you paid for it, if only on account of its mineral wealth. That for some places is marvelous, but as for farming and immigration, it is a shame that men are allowed to induce people to believe in these. Aside from the minerals, the seals, and, possibly, the timber, about 99 per cent. of all you read regarding Alaska is a lie. But then everybody lies in Alaska, I presume, because its such a capital place for lies to grow."

DR. TALMAGE'S SERMON.

"FARMING A GOSPEL TYPE," THE SUBJECT OF THE TEXT.

He Preaches Before the American Farmers' Encampment at Mount Gretna—His Words to Christian Workers "Plow Deep!"—The Reward of Perseverance.

LEBANON, Pa., Aug. 17.—The American Farmers' encampment at Mount Gretna, near this city, today listened attentively to a remarkable discourse by the great Brooklyn preacher, Rev. T. De Witt Talmage, who arrived here yesterday from Piedmont, Chautauqua, Ga., where he spoke on Wednesday last. The subject was one peculiarly suited to the vast audience, being on "Farming a Gospel Type." I Kings xix, 19: Elisha, the son of Shaphat, who was plowing with twelve yoke of oxen before him, and he with the twelfth.

Representatives of the great farmers' associations from all parts of the country are at the encampment, preparations for which have been going on for months in advance. The surrounding densely populated counties of Pennsylvania are also fully represented. Today's services were held in the open air. An immense choir from the churches of Lebanon led the music.

Rev. Dr. Talmage spoke as follows:

Farmers of America! Accept my salutation. Our text puts us down into the plow's furrow, where many of us have been before. My boyhood passed on a farm and my father a farmer, your style of life is familiar to me. One of my earliest recollections is that of my father coming in from the hot harvest field exhausted, the perspiration streaming from his forehead and chin, and fainting on the doorsill, and my mother resuscitating him, until seeing the alarm of the household he said: "Don't be frightened. I got a little tired and the sun was hot, but I am all right now." And I remember mother seated at the table, often saying, "Well; I am too tired to eat!" The fact is that I do not think the old folks got thoroughly rested until they lay down in the graveyard back of Somerville to take the last sleep.

THE FARMER'S INDEPENDENCE.

Office seekers go through the land and they stand on political platforms, and they tell the farmers the story about the independent life of a farmer, giving flattery where they ought to give sympathy. Independent of what? No class of people in this country have it harder than farmers. Independent of what? Of the curculio that stings the peach trees? of the rust in the wheat? of the long rain with the rye down? Independent of the grasshopper? of the locust? of the army worm? of the potato bug? Independent of the drought that burns up the harvest? Independent of the cow with the hollow horn? or the sheep with the foot rot? or the pet horse with a nail in his hoof? Independent of the cold that freezes out the winter grain? Independent of the snowbank out of which he must shovel himself? Independent of the cold weather when he stands threshing his numbed fingers around his body to keep them from being frosted? Independent of the frozen ears and the frozen feet? Independent of what? Fancy farmers who have made their fortunes in the city and go out in the country to build houses with all the modern improvements, and make farming a luxury, may not need any solace; but the yeomanry who get their living out of the soil, and who that way have to clothe their families and educate their children and pay their taxes and meet their interest on mortgaged farms—such men find a terrific struggle. And my hope is that this great National Farmers' encampment may do something toward lifting the burdens of the agriculturists. Yes, we were nearly all of us born in the country. We dropped corn in the hill, and went on Saturday to the mill, tying the grist in the center of the sack so that the contents on either side of the horse balanced each other, and drove the cattle afield, our bare feet wet with the dew, and rode the horses with the halter to the brook until we fell off, and hunted the mow for nests until the feathered occupants went cackling away. So we all understand rustic allusions. The Bible is full of them. In Christ's sermon on the mount you see the full blown lilies and the glossy back of the crow's wing as it flies over Mount Olivet. David and John, Paul and Isaiah find in country life a source of frequent illustration, while Christ takes the responsibility of calling God a farmer, declaring, "My Father is the husbandman."

Noah was the first farmer. We say nothing about Cain, the tiller of the soil. Adam was a gardener on a large scale, but to Noah was given all the acres of the earth. Elisha was an agriculturist, not culturing a ten acre lot; for in my text you find him plowing with twelve yoke of oxen before him, and he with the twelfth. In Bible times the land was so plenty and the inhabitants so few that Noah was right when he gave to every inhabitant a certain portion of land; that land, if cultured, ever after to be his own possession.

CROPS OF OLDEN TIMES.

They were not small crops raised in those times, for though the arts were rude the plow turned up very rich soil, and barley, and cotton, and flax, and all kinds of grain came up at the call of the harvesters. Pliny tells of one stalk of grain that had on it between three and four hundred ears. The rivers and the brooks, through artificial channels, were brought down to the roots of the corn, and to this habit of turning a river wherever it was wanted Solomon refers when he says: "The king's heart is in the hand of the Lord, and he turneth it as the rivers of water are turned, whithersoever he will."

The wild beasts were caught, and then a hook was put into their nose, and then they were led over the field, and to that God refers when he says to wicked Sennacherib, "I will put a hook in thy nose and I will bring thee back by the way which thou camest." And God has a hook in every man's nose, whether it be Nebuchadnezzar or Ahab or Herod. He may think himself very independent, but some time in his life or in the hour of his death he will find that the Lord Almighty has a hook in his nose.

This was the rule in regard to the culture of the ground, "Thou shalt not plow with an ox and an ass together," illustrating the folly of ever putting intelligent and useful and pliable men in association with the stubborn and the unmanageable. The vast majority of trouble in the churches and in reformatory institutions comes from the disregard of this command of the Lord, "Thou shalt not plow with an ox and an ass together."

There were large amounts of property invested in cattle. The Moabites paid 100,000 sheep as an annual tax. Job had 1,000 sheep, 3,000 camels, 500 yoke of oxen. The time of vintage was ushered in with mirth and music. The clusters of the vine were put into the wine press, and then five men would get into the press and trample out the juice from the grape until their garments were saturated with the wine and had become the emblems of slaughter. Christ himself, wounded until covered with the blood of crucifixion, made use of this allusion when the question was asked: "Wherefore art thou red in thine apparel and thy garments like one who treadeth the wine vat?" He responded: "I have trodden the wine press alone."

In all ages there has been great honor paid to agriculture. Seven-eighths of the people in every country are disciples of the plow. A government is strong in proportion as it is supported by an athletic and industrious yeomanry. So long ago as before the fall of Carthage Strabo wrote twenty-eight books on agriculture; Hesiod wrote a poem on the same subject—"The Weeks and Days." Cato was prouder of his excellent agricultural treatise than of all his military conquests. But I must not be tempted into a discussion of agricultural conquests. Standing amid the harvests and orchards and vineyards of the Bible, and standing amid the harvests and orchards and vineyards of our own country—I want to run out the analogy between the production of crops and the growth of grace in the soul—all these sacred writers making use of that analogy.

PLOW DEEP! PLOW DEEP!

In the first place I remark, in grace as in the fields there must be a plow. That which theologians call conviction is only the plowshare turning up the sins that have been rooted and matted in the soil. A farmer said to his indolent son, "There are a hundred dollars buried deep in that field." The son went to work and plowed the field from fence to fence, and he plowed it very deep and then complained that he had not found the money, but when the crop had been gathered and sold for a hundred dollars more than any previous year, then the young man took the hint as to what his father meant when he said there were a hundred dollars buried down in that field. Deep plowing for a crop. Deep plowing for a soul. He who makes light of sin will never amount to anything in the church or in the world. If a man speaks of sin as though it were an inaccuracy or a mistake, instead of the loathesome, abominable, consuming and damning thing that God hates, that man will never yield a harvest of usefulness.

When I was a boy I plowed a field with a team of spirited horses. I plowed it very quickly. Once in a while I passed over some of the sod without turning it, but I did not jerk back the plow with its rattling clevises. I thought it made no difference. After a while my father came along and said: "Why, this will never do; this isn't plowed deep enough; there you have missed this and you have missed that." And he plowed it over again. The difficulty with a great many people is that they are only scratched with conviction when the subsoil plow of God's truth ought to be put in up to the beam.

My word is to all Sabbath school teachers, to all parents, to all Christian workers—plow deep! plow deep!

And if in your own personal experience you are apt to take a lenient view of the sinful side of your nature put down into your soul the ten commandments, which reveal the holiness of God, and that sharp and glittering coulter will turn up your soul to the deepest depths. If a man preaches to you that you are only a little out of order by reason of sin and that you need only a little fixing up, he deceives! You have suffered an appalling injury by reason of sin. There are quick poisons and slow poisons, but the druggist could give you one drop that would kill the body. And sin is like that drug; so virulent, so poisonous, so fatal that one drop is enough to kill the soul.

PLOWING FOR A SOUL.

Deep plowing for a crop. Deep plowing for a soul. Broken heart or no religion. Broken soul or no harvest. Why was it that David and the jailer and the publican and Paul made such ado about their sins? Had they lost their senses? No. The plowshare struck them. Conviction turned up a great many things that were forgotten. As a farmer plowing sometimes turns up the skeleton of a man or the anatomy of a monster long ago buried, so the plowshare of conviction turns up the ghastly skeletons of sin long ago intombed. Geologists never brought up from the depths of the mountain mightier ichthyosaurus or megatherium.

But what means all this crooked plowing, these crooked furrows, the repentance that amounts to nothing, the repentance that ends in nothing? Men groan over their sins, but get no better. They weep, but their tears are not counted. They get convicted, but not converted. What is the reason? I remember that on the farm we set a standard with a red flag at the other end of the field. We kept our eye on that. We aimed at that. We plowed up to that. Losing sight of that we made a crooked furrow. Keeping our eyes on that we made a straight furrow. Now in this matter of conviction we must have some standard to guide us. It is a red standard that God has set at the other end of the field. It is the cross. Keeping your eye on that you will make a straight furrow. Losing sight of it you will make a crooked furrow. Plow up to the cross. Aim not at either end of the horizontal piece of the cross but at the upright piece, at the center of it, the heart of the Son of God, who bore your sins and made satisfaction. Crying and weeping will not bring you through. "Him hath God exalted to be a Prince and a Saviour to give repentance." Oh, plow up to the cross!

Again I remark, in grace as in the field there must be a sowing. In the autumn weather you find the farmer going across the field at a stride of about twenty-three inches, and at every stride he puts his hand into the sack of grain and he sprinkles the seed corn over the field. It looks silly to a man who does not know what he is doing. He is doing a very important work. He is scattering the winter grain, and though the snow may come, the next year there will be a great crop. Now, that is what we are doing when we are preaching the gospel—we are scattering the seed. It is the foolishness of preaching, but it is the winter grain; and though the snow of worldliness may come down upon it, it will yield after a while glorious harvest. Let us be sure we sow the right kind of seed. Sow mullen stalk and mullen stalk will come up. Sow Canada thistles and Canada thistles will come up. Sow wheat and wheat will come up. Let us distinguish between truth and error. Let us know the difference between wheat and bellebore, oats and henbane.

THE RELIGION OF NEGATION.

The largest denomination in this country is the denomination of Nothingarians. Their religion is a system of negations. You say to one of them, "What do you believe?" "Well, I don't believe in infant baptism." "What do you believe?" "Well, I don't believe in the perseverance of the saints." "Well, now tell me what you do believe." "Well, I don't believe in the eternal punishment of the wicked." So their religion is a row of cyphers. Believe something and teach it; or, to resume the figure of my text, scatter abroad the right kind of seed.

A minister in New York preached a sermon calculated to set the denominations of Christians quarrelling. He was sowing nettles. A minister in Boston advertised that he would preach a sermon on the superiority of transcendental and organized forces to untranscendental and unorganized forces. What was he sowing? The Lord Jesus Christ nineteen centuries ago planted the divine seed of doctrine. It sprang up. On one side of the stalk are all the churches of Christendom. On the other side of the stalk are all the free governments of the earth, and on the top there shall be a flowering millennium after a while. All from the gospel seed of doctrine. Every word that a parent, or Sabbath school teacher, or city missionary, or other Christian worker speaks for Christ comes up. Yes, it comes up with compound interest—you see the point, that one saving ten, the ten a hundred, the hundred a thousand, the thousand ten thousand, the ten thousand one hundred thousand—on, on forever.

Again I remark, in grace as in the farm there must be a harrowing. I refer now not to a harrow that goes over the field in order to prepare the ground for the seed, but a harrow which goes over after the seed is sown, lest the birds pick up the seed, sinking it down into the earth so that it can take root. There are new kinds of harrow, but the harrow as I remember it was made of bars of wood nailed across each other, and the under side of each bar was furnished with sharp teeth, and when the horses were hitched to it it went tearing and leaping across the field, driving the seed down into the earth until it sprung up in the harvest. Bereavement, sorrow, persecution are the Lord's harrows to sink the gospel truth into your heart. There were truths that you heard thirty years ago that have not affected you until recently. Some great trouble came over you, and the truth was harrowed in, and it has come up. What did God mean in this country in 1857? For a century there was the gospel preached, but a great deal of it produced no result. Then God harnessed a wild panic to a harrow of commercial disaster, and that harrow went down Wall street and up Wall street, down Third street and up Third street, down State street and up State street until the whole land was torn to pieces as it had never been before. What followed the harrow? A great awakening in which there were 500,000 souls brought into the kingdom of our Lord. No harrow, no crop.

THE CHRISTIAN'S REAPING.

Again I remark, in grace as in the farm there must be a reaping. Many Christians speak of religion as though it were a matter of economics or insurance. They expect to reap in the next world. Oh, no! Now is the time to reap. Gather up the joy of the Christian religion this morning, this afternoon, this night. If you have not as much grace as you would like to have, thank God for what you have, and pray for more. You are no worse enslaved than Joseph, no worse troubled than was David, no worse scourged than was Paul. Yet, amid the rattling of fetters, and amid the gloom of dungeons, and amid the horror of shipwreck, they triumphed in the grace of God. The weakest man here has 500 acres of spiritual joy all ripe. Why do you not go and reap it? You have been groaning over your infirmities for thirty years. Now give one round shout over your emancipation. You say you have it so hard; you might have it worse. You wonder why this great cold trouble keeps revolving through your soul, turning and turning, with a black hand on the crank. Ah, that trouble is the grindstone on which you are to sharpen your sickle. To the fields! Wake up! Take off your green spectacles, your blue spectacles, your black spectacles. Pull up the corners of your mouth as far as you pull them down. To the fields! Reap! reap!

Again I remark, in grace as in farming there is a time for threshing. I tell you bluntly that is death. Just as a farmer beats the wheat out of the straw so death beats the soul out of the body. Every sickness is a stroke of the flail, and the sickbed is the threshing floor. What, say you, is death to a good man only taking the wheat out of the straw? That is all. An aged man has fallen asleep. Only yesterday you saw him in the sunny porch playing with his grandchildren. Calmly he received the message to leave this world. He bade a pleasant good-by to his old friends. The telegraph carries the tidings, and on swift rail trains the kindred come, wanting once more to look on the face of dear old grandfather. Brush back the gray hairs from his brow; it will never ache again. Put him away in the slumber of the tomb. He will not be afraid of that night. Grandfather was never afraid of anything. He will rise in the morning of the resurrection. Grandfather was always the first to rise. His voice has already mingled in the doxology of heaven. Grandfather always did sing in church. Anything ghastly in that? No. The threshing of the wheat out of the straw. That is all.

"DEAR LORD, GIVE ME SLEEP."

The Saviour folds a lamb in his bosom. The little child filled all the house with her music, and her toys are scattered all up and down the stairs just as she left them. What if the hand that plucked 4 o'clocks out of the meadow is still? It will wave the eternal triumph. What if the voice that made music in the home is still? It will sing the eternal hosanna. Put a white rose in one hand and a red rose in the other hand, and a wreath of orange blossoms on the brow; the white flower for the victory, the red flower for the Saviour's sacrifice, the orange blossoms for her marriage day. Anything ghastly about that? Oh, no. The sun went down and the flower shut. The wheat threshed out of the straw. "Dear Lord, give me sleep," said a dying boy, the son of one of my elders; "Dear Lord, give me sleep." And he closed his eyes and awoke in glory. Henry W. Longfellow, writing a letter of condolence to those parents, said: "Those last words were beautifully poetic: 'Dear Lord, give me sleep.'"

'Twas not in cruelty not in wrath
That the reaper came that day:
'Twas an angel that visited the earth
And took the flower away.

So it may be with us when our work is all done. "Dear Lord, give me sleep."

I have one more thought to present. I have spoken of the plowing, of the sowing, of the harrowing, of the reaping, of the threshing. I must now speak a moment of the garnering.

Where is the garner? Need I tell you? Oh, no. So many have gone out from your own circles—yes, from your own family—that you have had your eyes on that garner for many a year. What a hard time some of them had! In Gethsemanes of suffering they sweat great drops of blood. They took the "cup of trembling" and they put it to their hot lips and they cried: "If it be possible, let this cup pass from me." With tongues of burning agony they cried: "O Lord, deliver my soul!" But they got over it. They all got over it. Garnered! Their tears wiped away; their battles all ended—their burdens lifted. Garnered! The Lord of the harvest will not allow those sheaves to perish in the equinox. Garnered! Some of us remember, on the farm, that the sheaves were put on the top of the rack which surmounted the wagon, and these sheaves were piled higher and higher, and after a while the horses started for the barn; and these sheaves swayed to and fro in the wind, and the old wagon creaked, and the horses made a struggle and pulled so hard the harness came up in loops of leather on their backs, and when the front wheel struck the elevated floor of the barn it seemed as if the load would go no farther until the workmen gave a great shout, and then with one last tremendous strain the horses pulled in the load; then they were unharnessed and forkful after forkful of grain fell into the mow. Oh, my friends, our getting into heaven may be a pull, a hard pull, a very hard pull; but these sheaves are bound to go in. The Lord of the harvest has promised it. I see the load at last coming in the door of the heavenly garner. The sheaves of the Christian soul away to and fro in the wind of death, and the old body creaks under the load, and as the load strikes the door of the celestial garner it seems as if it can go no farther. It is the last struggle, until the voices of angels and the voices of our departed kindred and the welcoming voice of God shall send the harvest rolling into the eternal triumph, while all up and down the sky the cry is heard: "Harvest home! Harvest home!"

THE LETTER OF AN ENTHUSIASTIC CORRESPONDENT.

Resources of the West—A Policy That Makes Rogues of Us All—Development Hindered By Restriction—A Touch of Politics—A New Canadian Feeling.

(Correspondence of The Times.)

VICTORIA, B.C., Aug. 14.—Yes, Canada is good enough for the ordinary individual, is the conclusion arrived at by your correspondent from Denver, Col. The sentiment would find a ready response in the hearts of thousands of Canadians who have crossed the boundary into Uncle Sam's domain. Again, we find many and know many who praise the day they entered the United States, for success seems to have met them and remained with them. It stands to reason also that the opportunities are greater in the great republic to the south, where enterprise and capital are reaching forth and opening up new fields and making the world ring with their greatness.

I am safely within the mark when I say that the home training of the English-speaking Canadian, the frugal living, high moral tone which prevails in most of the humble homes in Canadian rural, hamlet or city life, has made the young Canadian the "canny Scot" of North America.

One who has been brought up in Ontario, who has been in active touch with her institutions from childhood, who has attended the Public and High Schools and thence to college, or watched his school day friends as they followed other vocations in the trades or commerce, or who is familiar with the thorough school system in the rural districts, not only of Ontario, but also of the Maritime Provinces, and from such associations goes to the Far West and greater Canada, is struck with the great possibilities for the future both of the country and for

who have been moulded into shape by whatever national influences one can say exists. We never knew any other land, we care not for any land as for our native land. If English, Irish and Scotch come here, they must come to adapt themselves to our institutions and live under our rule, for we control this country both East and West. And why do I speak thus? Let me explain. As a lover of Canada, reasonably familiar with her history, her people, her trials, her great men and her institutions; as one who has, instead of parading the streets of Paris, London and New York, sought her great lakes, prairies and forests; studied the needs of our young country as a student, instead of the follies of Europe; watched legislation as a young Canadian untrammeled by party predilections, I feel like expressing a view of our future. Your readers are all familiar with city and country life in the East, but it has been the lot of but few to travel through the Saskatchewan Valley or sail for days down her sinuous stream. They may have crossed Alberta in a Pullman with a vision of a few miles on either side of the Canadian Pacific Railway and wondered that so much existed. They probably have been lugged up the slope of the Rockies and descended the canyons of the Fraser River and talked platitudes about their beauty, but know as much from these experiences of they would know of Lake Superior by a sail from Toronto to the Humber.

The great Saskatchewan, with its wooded valleys and its illimitable prairies, disparaged by some on account of its severe winter, is the prospective home of millions. The country will be tapped by one railway which will shortly pick Prince Albert and soon others will follow. The Battleford region will repay the expense of the iron rail. Grumblers may find fault with the Northern Saskatchewan which will be peopled by a strong, healthy, happy race, bracing up to and laughing at the clear, sharp winters, and glorying in their beautiful summers; but even the shivering pessimist will be filled with delight when the Alberta country is reached. Along the eastern slope of Rockies lies lovely, mild Alberta, the envy of American ranchers, in which you could drop a dozen Ontarios. Nature has for ages been depositing and storing up untold wealth in Alberta, and, if it is true that "everything however lovely and objectionable has a purpose in the economy of nature," surely the vast fertile plains, coal and oil deposits and grassy slopes are destined to play some part commensurate with their greatness. The aspect of luxuriant loneliness as one travels in Alberta excites a feeling of sadness when you think of the garden plots, called farms, in Quebec; the hardships which beset so many industrious yeomanry who contend with stubborn clay and rocky soil for a livelihood in the East, and by the term East we mean from Ontario to the Atlantic. How they could revel if they once established themselves which can be done with a less expense than any place east of that country, for the climate is almost as salubrious as in British Columbia, and cattle run around the slopes all winter long. Homes, happy homes, for millions.

Then over the mountains to our rich Pacific Province, the richest, most promising of them all. Nature has here lavished her choicest gifts, waiting for man to occupy them. Gold, silver, copper in untold richness, coal, timber, fish bringing in millions of foreign capital, salubrious climate, two crops a year, fruit unexcelled in Californian orchards. Oh, how the British Columbian revels in the future of his Province, and how young Canada feels that here they can amass money and health. I have not space to touch on our resources, for I have chosen this as my adopted Province, but would say, young man, if you have small capital or stout heart, make for the Pacific Province. We are now the richest Province per capita, although we do smoke more cigars and drink more whiskey also than any other Province, still they do not have the same effect. The Fraser River valley and the Chilcotem country have homes for hundreds of thousands, in time. Crops don't fail, they never fail. Farm laborers make money, $2 a day only, and two crops of hay, sometimes three, are taken from the Fraser River lands. But, in conclusion, let those who have reason in their own small lives to guide a country on lines governed by party expediency exalt above true Canadian patriotism the prejudices which are largely fed by buncombe talk of loyalty, falsely so called; but for there is a brighter, better patriotism which hopes for a time when restriction must come to an end. You may manacle trade in Eastern Canada, where the St. Lawrence and the lakes divide you, but you cannot establish such a policy on our broad, free, rolling prairies, where the very cattle wander at will over the imaginary boundary, where the rancher and mountaineer, miner and trader laugh at a few scattered mounted police pressed into the customs service. You might as well try and pen back the streams of our mighty Rockies which rush to their level as bar the trade between the northern and southern portion of Western America. The impost makes rogues of us all. Office-bearers by the score may be supported by the faithful, docile Eastern Canadian farmer, but his western brother will have none of them. Every man you meet for 2,000 miles, except the minions of Minister Bowell, flies on the wheel, is a free trader. What we need is capital. Sentiment does not seem to be reciprocated by the shrewd capitalist who receives such devout worship from the I. F. faddists. Truly an "if" scheme, suppositious, is Imperial Federation. British Columbia is indeed that's known. English capital may flood the bankrupt Argentine Republic, boom South Africa or deal in Yankee pork and beer trusts, while the devotees at the shrine of Imperial Federation hold up their fetish and mumble their unintelligible gibberish, while portions of their own land are unsung and unheard of. British Columbia presents a field for England's millions to be invested and a good solid return guaranteed.

A LAND OF PROMISE

Those young Canadians who may think that Canada presents a circumscribed field for life's action should at at present possess their souls in patience, for the future is bright and the time is fast coming when many who have crossed the border will return and settle in their "ain countrie," and great cities will rise and railways be built, and those who face the new life now will reap the reward for their enterprise. We have prospered and we will prosper in spite of bad government, although we will soon call a halt and ask a reckoning. A baronetcy and a few millionaires is all one can clearly discern at this distance on one side, on the other an attempt to corrupt our beautiful young country, which needs now to build for the future, yearning for stalwart, worthy men, around whom a nationality may grow; types of men the record of whose lives may be handed down as standards of uprightness, patriotism and statesmanship. Western Canada is developing a new type of Canadian who will be heard from before the opening of another century; who will be heard and give new themes for Canadian speech.

ARE WE WITHOUT A GOVERNMENT.

The protest addressed to the Hon. JOHN ROBSON, Premier, etc., etc., against the presence of C Battery and Militia at Wellington, and also against the President of the Executive Council acting as counsel in the trials before the Stipendiary Magistrate at Nanaimo, signed by THOS. KEITH, M.P.P., THOS. FOSTER, M.P.P., and C. C. MCKENZIE, M.P.P., bears with it the true ring.

The Hon. JOHN ROBSON's answer, on the other hand, displays gross ignorance, vanity and impudence.

Possibly Mr. ROBSON's political experience in the last few years may have caused him to look with contempt upon "a representative of the people," or to make him think he is dealing with a lot of ignorant sycophants, who, spaniel like, the more he kicks them, the more they will fawn upon the great man. That the Provincial Government and they alone are responsible for the presence of the military at Wellington is apparent to anyone who has the most rudimentary knowledge of responsible government.

The maintenance of law and order is the duty of the civil authorities. The federal law authorises the calling of the military to the aid of the civil authorities when it is anticipated that any disturbance is likely to occur beyond the power of the civil authorities to suppress. The head of the civil power in the Province is the Executive Council, composed at the present time of His Honor Lieut. Governor NELSON, the Hon. JOHN ROBSON, Premier, the Hon. C. E. POOLEY, President of the Council, the Honorables THEODORE DAVIE, F. G. VERNON, and J. H. TURNER.

The Legislative Assembly have vested in the Executive Council the power to appoint subordinate officers to carry out the laws. Under that authority magistrates are appointed and the Federal Act requires that three such magistrates should sign a requisition to the senior officer of the militia, which is to be presented to that official before the military can be called to the aid of the civil power. But it is through the instrumentality of Ministers of the Crown that resort should be had under any circumstances to military aid, as they are responsible to the Legislature and must be able to justify the necessity for their acts under penalty of censure and removal from office. The ELLIOTT government in 1877, and the present Government in the more recent Skeena trouble adopted that course. The protest of Messrs. KEITH, FOSTER and MCKENZIE shows that they know their duties as members of the Legislature and are prepared to perform them without fear or favor. As regards calling of the militia to the aid of the civil power in connection with the Wellington strike, it was the special duty of the civil power to do so if such a course of action was necessary. On the other hand, if it was not requisite it should not have been done, and those holding the responsible positions of advisers to His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, are to blame, and must stand the consequences.

Mr. ROBSON's plea of ignorance places the Government in an infinitely worse position than if he had defended the calling out of the military power. It proves over his own signature that he is neglectful or ignorant of his duty, that practically the province is without a government, or that the government is so incompetent or imbecile that it allows the public affairs to drift at the mercy of anybody.

We shall deal with the further question of Mr. POOLEY's employment as counsel at a future occasion.

COAST DEFENCE.

Secretary TRACY discussing the means of national coast defence prefers battle ships to land fortifications. As Secretary TRACY is not a military man by profession, his opinion as to the best method of coast defence will not pass at par value; nevertheless it should strike a person with half an eye for warlike matters, that if the seaboard cannot be successfully defended by war ships, it cannot be defended at all. It is not that ships are any less vulnerable than they were in olden time that their virtue lies; it is in their long-range cannon. Nowadays a ship can stand off at a distance so far as to resemble a mere speck and shell cities and fortifications. What chance is there of land batteries hitting a dot on the horizon? Conceive of trying to hit the Warspite laying off Victoria six or seven miles distant? It would be a "pop shot" that struck her, and then ten to one the damage would be only nominal. In the case of some of the heavier guns with which battle ships are being supplied, it would be possible for them to bombard Victoria from behind Race Rocks, at which point they would be all but invisible. San Francisco could be bombarded from outside the "Heads," and to those engaged in the business it would be a perfect picnic so far as danger to themselves was concerned. What, then, are land batteries good for? So far as we can see they are good for nothing save as an auxiliary defence, the last ditch when the defending fleet shall have been destroyed. The question comes up, however, what kind of a ship is best adapted for coast defence? This is not an easy question to answer, but this much is certain, the great unwieldly line-of-battle ship is not the thing. They draw too much water in the first place, and in the second they require a small ocean to turn in. Besides this, presenting the broadside that they do, they make a splendid target at from one to two miles away. The coast defence ship should be of light draft, low in the water, swift and easily handled. Carrying heavy guns and speedy, such a ship would prove more than a match for types like the Warspite, and even more formidable ships. This much is being realized by naval men, and we should not be surprised if the future coast defense ship was a modification of the ERICCSON monitors.

The next war, if there be any naval fighting of consequence, will produce a revolution in naval ship building. We do not hold that the idea of an invulnerable ship of war will be abandoned, that however, the present complex arrangements called a war-ship will be superseded by simpler types there can be no question. The art of gunnery has always kept a few paces ahead of the art of invulnerability and always will. Nothing that will float can be made to stand the impact of a projectile impelled by modern rifled cannon. The question is, therefore, not of "protected ships, a condition which impairs their seaworthiness, but of accuracy and rapidity of fire. Those who can shoot the offerest and the straightest must win. The result of a naval fight nowadays, besides the novelty of the thing, would be looked for with feelings of the liveliest anticipation. Not a few naval designers, we fancy, would, as the result of the thing find themselves with occupation gone.

EDITORIAL MELANGE.

Within the last few days there has been a marked change in the weather. Cerulean blue skies have given place to heavy clouds, while the atmosphere, though still charged with caloric enough to be comfortable, smells, so to speak, of fall. September, indeed, is at hand, and before we are aware of it we shall have to begin to think about Christmas. But with the changing seasons and the suggestions incident thereto, has it not occurred to anybody that the political atmosphere has changed? Has it not occurred to anybody that with the recent lowering of the atmosphere a corresponding chilliness has overtaken Government circles? All this may be an error of judgment,—prejudice, but such is our humble opinion, and we give it for what it is worth. May we suppose, however, that the lowering of the political atmosphere to correspond with the weather is a reciprocal coincidence? Come to think about it there is nothing to justify this belief. A survey of the political situation, reveals the fact that the hand writing on the wall has been visible for some time. Since "Honest JOHN" began to treat redistribution "gingerly" there has been a gradual obscuring of the Robsonian horizon. The black spot on the sun of Robsonism in the shape of Victoria was never a small one, but what with the accretions of Vancouver, Westminster and Nanaimo there is naught much left but spot, and James Bay trembles at the approaching cataclysm. Probably nowhere under the sun where alleged sane men were at the wheel of State was there ever such wild steering. Among the shoals of Redistribution the skipper got his ship through only by the merest scratch. He lost both his anchors in the fancied safe harbors of Mining Royalties and of the $105 Mineral Clause, and now to cap the climax he must knock a hole in the bottom of his ship by striking the rock of the Wellington emeute. This last blunder in directing the course of the ship of State was the worst of all. The rock was in plain sight. The Government saw it last spring when they hypocritically voted for Mr. HASLAM's amendment to the Coal Mines Regulation Act. But nature would have its course. The true sympathies of the Government stifled for the time that they might garner a few more votes, resumed their wonted tenor as soon as the harvest was over, and the Attorney-General gave the wink to the magistrates. Troops defiled through Wellington. The white-winged dove of peace flew shudderingly away. The Government lent its hand to prevent the recognition of organized labor. And what is the political result? The Government have lost three possible supporters. Let these men be what they may they cannot support the Government as represented by the present personel. Are we wrong in intimating that of late it has grown perceptibly chillier at James Bay? And shall we be esteemed a false prophet if we say that it will be chillier still? We cannot impress upon the Government too strongly the necessity of preparing for an extremely cold day.

One more word before we part. If troops were really needed at Wellington, why does the Colonist find it necessary to fire off day after day whole broadsides of matter in defence of the action of the magistrates and incidentally of the Government? Conscious of the rectitude of their intentions and morally certain that the situation at Wellington was volcanic, the Government have no need to defend themselves; they might say, and the public would sustain them, "we approved of the action of the magistrates, a stitch in time saves nine, and what are the Opposition going to do about it."

But the Government know the magistrates know, and the Colonist and the public are in the same category, that the calling out of troops was a precipitate measure, and not warranted by the spirit of the law. It was the duty of the authorities first to have increased the constabulary, and in the second place, finding the troops to be really necessary, the requisition should have emanated from the local magistrates. The law plainly contemplates that the resources of the constabulary shall first be exhausted before the military are called out, and it also contemplates, that if troops are called out the requisition must come from magistrates living on the spot and familiar with the condition of affairs. Until the Colonist is able to sweep away these objections to the action of the magistrates, there is no such thing as condoning their precipitancy or excusing the Government, much less successfully defending either of them.

Resolved down to a fine thing, the Government are wanting of the moral courage to stand up for what they think is right, if in so doing they have reason to apprehend that they will lose votes. If the Government have reason to think that the declaration of war against Wellington was warranted by the situation, why should they shirk the responsibility of the thing. Alas, they lack the moral courage to act like men. They shrink behind the earthworks of legal technicalities and of pettifoggery, and the Colonist, fool like, peeps out through the loop holes of evasion and of disingenuousness shrieking the while, "we are all right, but we won't assume any responsibility in connection with the management of public affairs. Let us draw our salaries in peace, and don't thump us too severely for browbeating school trustees." The Colonist has better sense if left to itself than to undertake to defend the Government on these lines. That it should permit itself to pursue a course of stultification at the instance of intriguing, irresponsible, blundering, disingenuous political accidents is as mystifying to the public as the identity of the man with the "Iron Mask."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The park commissioners of Philadelphia have banished the EDISON phonograps from Fairmount Park. A member of the committee objected to the use of the machines on the ground that they were injurious to the public health, not only on account of the liability to cause deafness, but because there was an opportunity to transmit diseases of the ear by their indiscriminate use by the public. It was also claimed that the insertion of the hearing tube into the year is conducive to the contraction of various diseases of the blood, owing to the contact of the tube with the membrances.

JAMES GORDON BENNETT has a way of dropping in to examine the Herald at the most unexpected times, and as his visits often result in general "shake up" and re-organization of the paper's managerial, editorial, and working forces, they are awaited with fear and trembling by his employees. On one of these occasions, one of the pressmen, a man who had worked for the elder BENNETT and was an excellent workman, though guilty of an occasional lapse from sobriety, had a bad black eye and was in a quandary as to what excuse he should offer if BENNETT noticed it. Acting on a sudden inspiration, he seized an ink roller, and rubbed a daub of ink on the side of his face, completely concealing the discoloration of the skin. Presently Mr. BENNETT came into the pressroom, and with the superintendent, JOHN HAYS, went carefully through, criticising every detail, and looking sharply at each employee. When about to leave he turned suddenly, and pointing at the besmirched pressman, said: "Mr. HAYS, what is that man's name?" The culprit quaked in his shoes until Mr. BENNETT said slowly: "I want you to give that man three dollars per week more wages; he is the only man in the room that looks as if he had been working."

A WOMAN'S GRIT.

She Could be Humorous, Though in Death's Grip.

"I have had some peculiar patients," said a St. Paul doctor lately, "but the grittiest woman I ever saw was a little lady who suffered for years before death kindly relieved her suffering. Under the ravages of the disease, with which she was afflicted, she had wasted away to a mere skeleton, and her own forlorn appearance was the subject of ghastly jokes by herself to the day of her death. One day when her relatives had been summoned to be present at the end I called and prescribed a certain plaster to be placed so as to stimulate heart action as long as possible. When it was ready I placed it in position, and the woman smiled and appeared to wish to say something, but after two or three efforts she found that she was too weak to articulate, so she borrowed my pencil and wrote: 'Doctor, aren't you putting a good deal of mustard on a very little meal?' It was the last of her numberless bits of humor, for in a short time she was dead."

HELIGOLAND.

A Baptismal Service—Scarcity of Soil on the Island.

After service, on Sundays when an infant is to be christened, a small silver basin is placed on a brass lid; there is no water in it, but presently the Heligoland children, babies of two and three years old flock in each carrying in its little hand a cup of water which is emptied into the basin, and the new born islander is baptized with the water brought for that purpose by his future playfellows. Behind the altar the light falls through the purple window panes upon an old, old hour glass, placed in the dark ages before the invention of clocks and watches before the clergyman when he began his sermon. It is a marvellous church, this holiest spot on "holy island," and on the day Lord Salisbury's gift was finally handed over to Germany, one of our most interesting historical monuments ceased to be ours. The graveyard round the church is nearly full, and when the last corner in it has received its sleeper, the difficult question will arise as to where the Heligolander of the future will find his last resting place. The soil in the present graveyard covers the rock six feet deep, but there is hardly another spot on the island where more than four feet of earth covers the stony foundation.

WOMEN'S VOICES.

The Tones of the Fair Sex in the United States Improving.

Kate Field asks: Where do we Americans get our execrable voices, anyway? Sharp, nasal—plebeian! It is one of the most humiliating things for us abroad, and one of the saddest on returning home. This dreadful inheritance of ours—this mixture of twang, whine, affection and acridness—it is hard to get rid of it. There is no other nation vocally so affected. With all this in mind, one cannot help feeling glad and interested to know that American woman are awakening to a sense of their lack in this respect and that in some of the eastern cities "speech culture" is the latest motive for forming societies and classes.

Three such classes are now conducted and attended in New York city by people that I know. Not only is sound considered but manner of speech as well. Certain little provincialisms are promptly attacked and combatted unceasingly until eradicated.

The other day I was present at the last meeting of a class for the season. It was very warm out of doors, but the cool little drawing room was quite full of married women and young girls. The lady who conducted the class was a New Yorker by birth who had been travelling in Europe for the last six or seven years. He voice is deeper than Sarah Bernhardt's and almost as sweet.

The first exercise for the class was in sentences something like the following: "If you should ask me to task my memory with anything so long past," etc. This was followed by "can't" and "sha'n't" practice. The conductor disapproved of these colloquialisms, but thought them bearable provided the "a" was "ah" and not the nasty little flat "a" usually heard from Americans.

Darwin Outdone.

Henrik Dahl, of Aalesund, was a reader and follower of Darwin. Wishing to apply his theory of the limit of adaptability of a species to its environment, he procured a herring from a neighboring fjord and carried it home in a tub of sea water. He renewed the water daily for some time, and gradually reduced the quantity, with so little inconvenience to the herring that he concluded that the fish might, in time, learn to breath air unolluted with water, like the cat and the man. It turned out as he expected, and the water was finally turned out of the tub never to be replaced. Henrik next removed the fish from its tub and placed it on the ground, where it flopped about very awkwardly at first, but soon learned to move very freely and rapidly. In a little while the herring was able to follow its master without difficulty, and then it became his constant companion about the streets of the city. On a certain unfortunate day Henrik had occasion to cross a dilapidated bridge which spanned an arm of the harbor. The herring coming gracefully along, heedless of danger, now and again springing at the ephemera, for which it had acquired an especial fondness, missed its footing slipped through a crack into the water beneath and was drowned.

JUBILEE HOSPITAL CONCERT.

A Splendid Programme Prepared for Next Tuesday Evening.

As time draws near to the 26th, interest in the grand concert to be given on the evening of that date, ripens and the box sheet at Mr. C. A. Lombard's music store is rapidly being filled up. One of the reasons for this is that the people are awakened to the fact that the concert will be something worth attending as so many of our local talent are identified with the affair either directly or indirectly. As before stated the Lieut.-Governor and Mrs. Nelson, Rev. Mr. Admiral Hotham and officers of H. M. flagship Warspite have given their consent to have the concert given under their distinguished patronage, and the fact too that the full orchestra of the flagship will take part is a sufficient guarantee that a delightful evening is in store for those who attend. The selections to be played by the orchestra are new and sparkling and will add much towards the success of the affair.

Regarding the young lady who is giving the concert, a gentleman who heard her sing the other evening told a representative of the TIMES that Miss Chambers has an exquisite voice, full of power and richness and that she is bound to create a sensation and a name for herself in musical circles in this city. The object for which the concert is given is a worthy one and it is hoped that a good round sum will be secured for the hospital.

Below is given the full

THE ETTA WHITE IN HARBOR.

The Trim Little Steamer Looks none the Worse for Her Bath.

Yesterday afternoon the steamer Etta White, Captain Smith, which went ashore, filled and sank in Buccaneer Bay some days ago, entered port with a boom of logs in tow. Particulars of her raising by the wrecker Whitelaw have already been given, but most people did not think that the White would be so soon at work again. Her lights are nominal, but she will be placed on the Star ways for a complete renovation. The cost of raising her was $5000, and it is not likely that the total amount to be spent will exceed another thousand. Considering that the White has been to the bottom of the sea, she does not look much the worse for her trip, and will soon be in as good fettle as ever.

Won't Be a Congressman.

The statement that Captain Carroll would be a congressman for Alaska would be correct were it not for the fact that he is a resident of the State of Oregon, and Alaska is not entitled to a member of Congress, and although the territory deserves such recognition, she will not receive it for some time yet.

A Gentle Reminder.

During the progress of the concert at the Y.M.C.A. last evening Signor Bostolfi had occasion to call the attention of several individuals in the audience to the fact that they were behaving in a manner not at all like what that gentleman was used to seeing. The individuals fly pretty high around Victoria, but they have evidently much to learn before they will be intitled to the term “gentlemen.”

Steamboat Combine.

Puget Sound tradesmen and shippers are becoming alarmed at the attitude of the big steamboat corporations regarding the freight rates on the Sound. It is stated that the Oregon Improvement company's boats have been added to the Puget Sound Steamboat Association, and that the powerful steamer J. R. McDonald will also join the association. It is claimed that rates to Bellingham bay cities have been doubled, and are now $2.50 a ton of 40 cubic feet, square measure. The acting president of the association, Mr. Seeley has consulted with the owners of the J. R. McDonald, urging them to join.

Bogus Stock Swindler.

The bogus stock swindle was worked most successfully at Vancouver just as the Premier was about to depart Thursday afternoon. A gentleman named Paget was asked by a stranger to advance him some cash on what purported to be a certificate for stock in the Denver Gold Mining Company, of Denver, Col. Mr. Paget advanced the stranger $960 for the certificate for $1,000 stock. Before the departure of the steamer he became suspicious that all was not right and examined his stock certificate more closely, when it was found to be worthless. The swindler had by this time disappeared and has not since been seen. The matter is in the hands of the police.

Victoria Trades Assembly.

As anticipated in yesterday's TIMES, much of the time of the assembly was taken up in discussing the question of aggressive organization. It was decided to turn organization into new channels. The secretary was instructed to lay before the Dominion Labor Council which meets at Ottawa, September 22nd, a statement of the Chinese question as viewed from the standpoint of organized labor; also to instruct the different trades organizations of the Dominion to be ready should they be called upon to contribute to the support of the Wellington miners during the winter. Several new delegates were introduced to the assembly, among whom was Mr. Steve Donovan from the Carpenters' Union. It was 11 o'clock when the meeting adjourned.

Seattle is Happy.

The official census returns from Washington, D. C., showing that the population of Seattle, according to the official figures given out by Superintendent Porter, is 43,914, and of Tacoma only 35,858, has caused a general feeling of satisfaction. It is commonly believed by people familiar with both cities that the figures as published are substantially correct.

Grouse on Government Street.

A live grouse was captured on Government street last evening by Mr. J. Simpson. The bird had flown against the telephone wires, and fell stunned near Fort street. It soon revived, however, and is now as lively as ever. Mr. Simpson intends to keep his prize, and will try and domesticate the feathered biped. It is to be hoped that the funny man of the Mainland and eastern papers will not seize upon this fact of a grouse being found on the street, to evolve an alleged joke about the primeval forests of Victoria and its general old style.

Cassiar Election.

The elections for a member of the Legislative Assembly were held in the following places in Cassiar district on the 15th of August:

	Hall.	Cunningham.
Nass	19	5
Simpson	16	3
Metlakahtla	2	5
Inverness	3	1
Kincolith	8	18
	48	32

The voters of Lorna Creek and Dease Lake will cast their ballots on the 1st of September, and the result may be slightly different when those places are heard from. At present the Government candidate leads.

Running Over the Bridge.

The programme at the city police court this morning aggregated $50 towards the city's finances, the donators being hack and expressmen, gentlemen of leisure, military officers, etc., who had seen fit to go over Rock bay bridge at a pace faster than a walk. Some of the individuals, principally a military officer, kicked vehemently against being fined whereas a Chinaman and several others paid the amount with a smile. Col. Holmes of C Battery who was among the lot pleaded not guilty and questioned the court as to how many days he would be imprisoned for if he refused to pay the fine as he would rather go to jail than pay it. His case was finally remanded until Wednesday to allow both sides to secure witnesses.

CITY AND PROVINCIAL.

ASK FOR CASH.

The Board of School Trustees Wish to Funds on Hand.

A special meeting of the board of school trustees was held on the 2'st inst., and after discussion the following resolution was passed:

"That the secretary-treasurer be instructed to make application forthwith on behalf of the trustee board to the Government, that an amount equal to a tenth of the sum voted for incidental expenses, be placed to the credit of British Columbia to the credit of the trustees of the Victoria city school district to meet the incidental expenses incurred on behalf of all the schools in the district for the present month, and to request that in future, the same amount be paid every month to the same account for the same purpose."

The trustees base their action on the act that the trustees of the Jubilee Hospital are allowed certain amounts with which to meet incidental expenses.

STEAMBOAT GAMBLING.

Victim Still Get Disheshed in the Toils of the Sharpers.

In spite of the repeated warnings appearing in the TIMES about gamblers on the Sound steamers, young men still continue to be roped in by a trio of professionals. The old dodge of getting stranger into a game of eucre and then commencing to bet on poker hands is still being worked, but the passing of the cards is not always done smooth enough, and the victim sometimes catches on."

It is really too bad the way these sharpers are allowed to work their little games. True, in nine cases out of ten the victims are too much ashamed to press for a conviction, or else are given a bluff and thus made to keep quiet. If the laws were properly enforced, the miserable sharks who prey on the public would soon be obliged to desist. If they were out and out gamblers, and did not masquerade under false colors, there would be some excuse for them. But to ape gentlemen and then act like thieves is too much for human endurance. Some day a well developed specimen of a man will thrash the life out of the despicable hounds.

THE BAPTIST CHURCH.

Annual Convention to be Held in this City Next Month.

The Baptist Churches of Western Washington and British Columbia will hold their annual convention with the Calvary Baptist Church of this city beginning Tuesday evening, September 2d, and holding over the following Sunday. The past year has been a very prosperous one in their church work and a large gathering of their representative workers are expected to be present. The first meeting will be the pastors association which convenes Tuesday, September 2nd, at 7:30 p. m. Special topics relating to the pastors work will be discussed until Wednesday at 4 p.m., when the council for the recognition of the new church at Spring Ridge will meet. Wednesday evening will be the general public services of recognition of the new church. On Thursday afternoon the Northwest Baptist Convention meets. The general missionary and educational work of the denomination for Western Washington and British Columbia is under the control of the convention and will be discussed at the meetings. Under the officers appointed by the convention the missionary work has been so vigorously prosecuted, not only in planting new churches but also in strengthening the old, that the membership has been more than doubled within the past two years. The growth of their work in Tacoma and Seattle has more than kept pace with the wonderful growth of these cities. Within about a year two new churches have been formed and several missions organized in Tacoma and in Seattle three new churches have been organized and several missions that is hoped will soon grow into churches. Several of these new churches are strong selfsustaining bodies and are led in their work by able pastors who have lately come to this coast from the East. The Baptists of this city are expecting a pleasant and profitable gathering and are preparing to give their visitors a warm and hospitable welcome.

Single Poles

One of the features of the Esquimalt addition of the tramway which is recommendable is the fact that the poles are erected on one side of the road only and iron shafts used instead of having two poles with cross wires. It seems a pity that the same method is not adopted in the city as the streets are narrow and it is and every pole erected makes them worse.

Y. M. C. A. Concert.

The concert given in the Y. M. C. A. rooms last evening was a grand success. Some of those who had promised their support were not present and therefore the programme devolved upon Prof. Renwick and Signors Bostolfi and Manelli. The three gentlemen succeeded admirably in pleasing the audience and by request will repeat the concert next Saturday evening.

Westminster News.

A dispatch from New Westminster says that there was a severe thunder storm at that city last night. The lightning was frequent and severe, accompanied by heavy rains.

Parties are reported to be slaughtering game out of season throughout the district.

A Frenchman living on Hall's Prairie was chased off his own land by a man named Nelson, armed with an axe, who is trying to "jump" the Frenchman's claim. The latter appealed to the city authorities. A warrant was issued and sent to the clerk of the municipality, but it was returned as he refused to act. The man can't get satisfaction, and is in a dilemma. He cannot go on his own property and he has no money to live in town. The law is said to be faulty in this respect.

There was an enthusiastic meeting last evening to discuss the British Columbia University question. It was decided to send a big crowd of representatives to the Victoria convocation. A committee has been appointed to call all graduates. Reduced fares will be asked on the steamers.

Everyone Suited.

To-day there arrived the first consignment of fall goods for gentleman's clothing. They comprise a well selected stock of Scotch, French, and German goods in the latest patterns, and will be made up at reasonable figures, in a first class manner, by J. McCallum, 43 Fort street.

Port Townsend's Railroad.

The chief engineer of the Oregon Improvement Company is at Port Townsend arranging for the operation of the Port Townsend railroad as far as it has been completed. One combination passenger and freight train will run each way daily, commencing on Monday.

Reformed Episcopal Church.

The Rev. John Reid, jr., of Montana, will preach morning and evening at the Reformed Episcopal Church to-morrow. He is said to have a very pleasing and powerful style, and as the reverend gentleman is well known here his remarks are sure to be listened to by a large congregation.

At the Y. M. C. A., Sunday.

To-morrow at the Young Men's Christian Association the regular Sunday service will be held at 4 p. m. Gospel service addressed by Mr. W. H. Burkholder. Mr. Wm. Mann will render several cornet solos. At 8:15 p. m. there will be a platform service in charge of the young men. A hearty welcome will be given all men who may attend their meeting.

Religious.

Rev. M. L. Rugg, of the Calvary Baptist church has arranged for a series of practical themes for the Sunday evening services, for the next few weeks. His subject to-morrow evening will be "Modern Faith Healing," a most interesting subject, in view of the vast amount of discussion that it has undergone from the pulpit and press throughout the world.

16th Century.

Furniture finished in the style of three centuries ago, is the latest fad. Some of the designs in oak are said to be very beautiful. A large consignment of bedroom suites in antique style is now on its way from the east to Hastie & Erskine, and is expected to arrive in a few days. Parties furnishing will do well to wait and see these latest designs in ornamental, as well as useful and durable furniture. *

Getting Men In.

By yesterday's train Mr. A. Dunsmuir returned to Victoria from Wellington. He stated to a TIMES reporter last evening that there was no truth in the report that concessions had been offered by the mine owners, other than we offer to confer at any time with their own workmen. Men are still coming in to work, and at present about eighty are employed, with more expected soon.

The Terrible Small Boy.

A Chinaman, who owns quite a few chickens, ran up to a police officer this morning in a great hurry and said that a little boy was sitting on his fence, fishing for his chickens. The police officer went to the place, more out of curiosity than anything else, when the Chinaman pointed out a hen lying dead in the yard with a fishing line hanging out of her beak. The line was pulled out, when it was found that a fishhook was attached, which evidently caused death.

Dinner at Government House.

The dinner table at Government House was surrounded by a pleasant party last night, the following ladies and gentlemen being entertained by Lieut.-Governor and Mrs. Nelson:—Hon. J. H. and Mrs. Turner, Mrs. and Miss Jenns, Dr. and Mrs. J. D. Helmcken, Mr., Mrs. and Miss Beeton, Rev. Arthur and Mrs. Beanlands, Miss Hills, Mrs. Miles, Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Hall, Dr. Hasington, Mr. T. R. Smith, Captain A. W. Jones, Lieut. Burstall, and Mr. Herbert Stanton.

Magnificent Boquet.

Mr. Williams, florist, whose garden is situated between "the Arm" and the Gorge Road, has placed on our table one of the finest boquets that ever decorated our sanctum. There are boquets and boquets. This one was of the finer sort, and for variety of flowers and rich contrasts of coloring it would be possible to equal it in no other country and only in Victoria by a florist who, like Mr. Williams, has an instinctive knowledge of the beautiful. It was composed of almost all the flowers now in bloom, the number of kinds being truly marvellous.

For the Exhibition.

Some of the finest samples of what can be produced on Vancouver Island are on view at Brackman & Ker's feed store, Government street. They are three sheaves, one each of barley, wheat and oats, and are, without doubt, as good looking as anything they like to bring along. The straws are over six feet long, and were cut high, at that! The samples are only a small part of what is being raised at J. D. Bryant's farm at Saanich, and if he continues to improve on it he will soon beat them all. The samples have been picked out for the Toronto Exhibition by G. E. Gosnell, and will be taken charge of by him.

Not the Shortest.

Shippers and consignees as a rule are always in a hurry for their goods to reach their destination and the fastest and shortest route is generally chosen with that view. However, the general rule is broken almost daily in this part of the world and one who is watching for such occasions can notice it almost daily on the C. P. N. wharf. For instance, the steamer Premier which arrived at Vancouver from Seattle on Wednesday last brought to the former city a car load of furniture consigned to a party at New Westminster. Instead of sending the freight straight to Westminster by rail as would be supposed, the parties send it to Victoria by the Islander, and then re-ship it by the steamer R. P. Rithet for Westminster. Thus it had to be loaded and unloaded three times and goes past New Westminster twice before getting there. This is a very roundabout trip, but nevertheless it is almost a daily occurrence to see it done.

Mason's patent reliable fruit jars, ice cream freezers, lemon squeezers, etc., in great variety at John Weiler's. *

Fifty-eight pieces linoleums, latest designs in all widths and qualities, just arrived at John Weiler's. *

TRAGEDY OF A THISTLE.

The Pride of Scotland Now Withers in the Rubbish Heap—Too Bad.

A lady of this city who hails from old Scotia, had lately in her garden a specimen of the national flower of Scotland, whose gigantic proportions caused her to [illegible] cakes to swell with pride as she contemplated it. Tenderly she nursed and watched over the plant, which was cared for better than any other in the garden, and fondly did the lady look forward to the day when its deep purple blossoms should burst forth. But alas! one day the stalwart form of a police officer loomed in that garden, and the lady was told that the Scottish plant must come down, or else the terrible engines of the law would be set to work. With much wonder the lady asked why, and when told that it was in accordance with a by-law made and formed by the concentrated wisdom of the aldermen, she broke forth into grievous lamentations and with much reluctance was the keen-bladed knife applied to the favorite plant, which now is withered and gone, its massive and majestic beauty being a thing of the was.

ADDITION TO THE ZOO.

The Steamer Sir James Douglas Becomes a Seal Poacher in American Waters.

What can the state of affairs be in Behring Sea when the Dominion Government steamer captures seal in Washington? For the past week the Sir James Douglas has been repairing the cable between Clover Point near Victoria and Dungeness Sand Spit, on the American side, and on Thursday connections were made between the above named places. But there still remained a break between the sand spit and Dungeness which would have to be repaired before a message would go through to Port Townsend. So on Friday morning, the 22nd inst., the Douglas left Victoria at six o'clock and two hours later arrived at Dungeness. Owing to the state of the tide she had to lay about a mile from where the cable crossed. A boat was lowered and having on board of her all the appliances required for repairing the break, shoved off. Mr. Nilson, the superintendent of telegraphs, the engineer, chief officer, two of the crew and myself, comprised the occupants. We had not left the steamer very long before we noticed a great many seals swimming all about us, but as we did not happen to have a gun we paid very little attention to them until passing quite close to the beach in one place we noticed a seal rolling himself towards the water, which he reached long before a boat could get within a hundred yards of him. After that we kept a bright look out for others, with the hopes of being again able to contribute something towards the Zoo. We saw no more sunning themselves on our way up, but after the cable was put in working order and we were returning, we had just rounded a point when I noticed tracks leading from the water, and on following them with my eye about fifty feet, I beheld a seal fast asleep. We got the boat to the shore as soon as possible, and two of us sprang out to seize our prize. He looked so harmless that I was in the act of putting my hands carefully around his body to carry him to the boat, when he made a grab at me. The mate called out to catch him by the back of the neck, which I did while one of the boys got him by the hind flippers and helped me to pack him to the boat. After we got him in the boat the difficulty arose how we were to keep him from getting away, as he appeared to gain strength, and I had all I could do with both hands to keep him from getting away. Luckily one of the boys found an empty sack in the boat and we shoved him into it. When we got back to the steamer we let him go on deck, where he seemed to enjoy himself strolling around until we arrived in Victoria, when I went up to Mr. Goodacre, chairman of the park committee and presented the seal, our American capture, on behalf of the officers and crew of the steamer Sir James Douglas. NAUTICAL NOTES.

Items of Interest Along the Water Front—General Marine News.

Steamer Geo. W. Elder arrived from the Sound last evening and left for Alaska this morning.

Steamer Mascotte is on her way to Victoria with a big load of Newcastle stone for the different new buildings at present in course of erection.

PERSONAL.

Movements of Well Known People in Various Directions.

G. A. Cooper returned last night from Portland.

T. Lubbe returned yesterday from the Sound.

J. E. Crane returned from the Mainland last night.

Dr. Lewis Hall and wife returned from the Sound yesterday.

Mrs. Landes, of Port Townsend, is visiting friends in Victoria.

Hon. Thos. Humphreys is still very low, but cheerful and hopeful.

W. G. Cameron was among the passengers on the Islander last night.

Mr. Henderson, jr., publisher of the directory of that name, arrived from the east last night.

Aged Parents.

A healthy male child was born to Mr. Thos. Green, of Greenbush, Ont., last week. The mother is 62 and the father 61 years of age.

A Little Disappointed.

To-day was the first Saturday that has not been a fine day since the wholesale stores, blacksmiths, etc., commenced to take Saturday afternoon as a half holiday, and naturally they were a little disappointed. Several games were to have come off on the hill, but some were postponed on account of the dampness, while those who "didn't care" went on playing as if it was the finest day imaginable.

Heating Apparatus.

The new heating apparatus for the central schools was tested and surveyed by Mr. W. S. Gore, surveyor-general. It is believed that the arrangements for supplying caloric are all that is needed, and will be a great improvement on the old stoves, which besides being inadequate were dangerous.

Eight Hour System.

In some lines of business more than eight hours of work a day are considered a great burden. But in the drug business it would be considered a boon to only have ten hours, and not open on Sundays. However, to accommodate their many patrons Cochrane & Munn are open Sunday from 9 to 10:30 a. m., 2 to 5, and 8:30 to 10 p. m. And a ring at the night bell receives a prompt response at any hour of the night.

Cannot be Surpassed

Mr. Jno. T. Pierre, merchant tailor, has received his first shipment of fall and winter goods, comprising elegant English and American coatings, suitings and trousering. On inspection they will be welcomed by lovers of choice cloth as they far surpass any previous importation of woolens into British Columbia, and as Mr. Pierre employs none but the best workmen, his customers may depend on having their garments cut and made in a satisfactory manner.

Advertise the City.

Some small boys were circulating neatly printed folders, having on one side a map of Spokane Falls and on the other a veracious presentation of the superior attractions of that enterprising metropolis. Spokane is determined that her light will not be hid under a bushel, and it is no doubt to their irrepressible spirit, of which this advertising scheme is an evidence, that her present great growth and prosperity is largely due. There is a moral here for Victoria, if it can only be found.

Claymore vs. Ariel.

Captain Urquhart, the pilot on the Claymore, distinctly denies that his vessel and the pilot cutter Ariel had a race the other Sunday. He says that on the day in question some ladies and children were aboard his craft and he would not go out in the straits as the passengers would have got seasick. Further the Claymore was new and everything strange and antried. He feels so confident that the Claymore can beat the Ariel that he is willing to race for a big cash bet, and will be ready to put up his pile that the ship with the Scottish name comes out of it the winner.

The Dougon Case.

The examination of Mrs. Rutledge, now confined for shooting Joseph Dougan, in Cowichan, will be held at Duncan's on Monday, before Mr. Edwin Johnson. During the week Mrs. Rutledge's counsel appealed for an allowance out of the estate, under the intestate act, for herself and one illegitimate child. The application stands adjourned until next Wednesday, for the purpose of producing evidence as to the estate. We believe the administrators of the estate will contest the paternity of the child. Hon. Theo. Davie, who is at present in Cowichan, will appear for the crown, and Mr. S. Perry Mills for Mrs. Rutledge.

Worked His Passage Back.

A few weeks ago a sailor named Walters bought his discharge from H.M.S. Champion, and not having much money left, applied early this week to Geo. Thomson, who was acting as assistant to Sergt. Langley, of the provincial police, for a position. According to Walters' story, Mr. Thomson sent him to Wellington as a special constable, but when he got there he was told that they needed no more special constables. Walters was then in a bad fix as he had spent all his money to get to Wellington, and as there was no work there he found it necessary to work his passage to Victoria on the steamer Badger.

By Carriage Road.

Last Saturday morning two legal luminaries started from Victoria in a single carriage and drove to Duncan's station, arriving there at night. On Sunday they were hospitally entertained by another legal gentleman, returning to Victoria on Monday, where they arrived at 10 o'clock. The travellers were impressed with the grandeur of the scenery at Sooke Lake, with the abundance of game of all kinds and the vast quantities of blackberries, Oregon grape and raspberries. Considering the limited amount of travel the road is in very good condition, being overgrown slightly between Sooke Lake and Shawnigan.

A vacancy was caused on the city police force yesterday by the resignation of officer J. H. Hunter who takes a position on the Provincial police force. Mr. Hunter is a very capable officer, and will no doubt fill the position with credit.

The oldest inhabitants of the real estate offices at Westminster fails to remember any such quietness in lots as exists at present. Things are expected to brighten up during the proverbial "next week," but probably around exhibition time will see the effort of the year.

Mr. D. McGillivray has received notification that he had been awarded the contract to construct 6½ miles of railway for the Bellingham Bay and British Columbia Railway from the boundary to the Nooksack river. He will build a bridge, consisting of two spans, each 150 feet in length, across the river, and one and a half miles of trestling on the approaches.

TEEKABOO'S RESURRECTION.

Buried Alive by His Old Squaw, but He's All Right Now.

At Eagle Valley on Friday week the residents were treated to a genuine resurrection, says the Pioche Record. The Indians that were in the valley had all gone to Panaca to attend a fandango, with the exception of an old Indian called Teekaboo and his squaw. Teekaboo is a very old Indian, was very sick, and could not attend the fandango on that account, and his faithful squaw stayed with him to minister to him in his last moments. Teekaboo grew gradually worse, and, as it seemed but a matter of a few days before his time would come, his squaw thought of the gay time the rest were having at the fandango and concluded to bury her old man.

Digging a hole about three feet deep, she wraped old Teekaboo up in a blanket, and put him in the hole and covered him with sage-brush and a few rocks and put a cup of water on each side of the grave in case he would like a drink, but had taken good care to wrap his arms that he had no use of them. The place where she had buried him was about a mile above Eagle Valley. She then went to Eagle Valley and told the residents that Teekaboo was dead, and on Wednesday she left for Panaca.

On Friday Ike Matthews was riding up the valley, and hearing some unusual noise, followed from where the sound came and came upon the grave. He pulled part of the sage brush off, and old Tookaboo's face was revealed. Teekaboo said, "Koch die," which so scared Mr. Matthews that he jumped on his horse and beat Ten Broeck's time back to the village. He told the folks there, who immediately went up, but could not persuade Mr. Matthews to go with them. They found Teekaboo as Mr. Matthews had told them, and soon had him out, and he bids fair to outlive his squaw. He was in the grave about sixty-five hours.

Lots of Trouble.

Outside of the bridge cases in the police court this morning things were pretty quiet, only one drunk being in attendance, but he rendered his part of the programme to the amusement of all present. The clerk having read the information and repeated the old stereotyped "Guilty or not guilty," the prisoner answered "Well, I must have been drunk, for I dont remember anything." Clerk—"Shall we prove the case, your honor?" His honor called the witnesses. And then a lot of evidence was taken to prove that a man who had pleaded guilty was guilty.
